On Spying

Times-Union Special Service

New York—"The Science of Spying," 1965-style, will be investigated by NBC producer Ted Yates in a 10 p.m. documentary that will look into undercover operations from Washington to Hong Kong.

With John Chancellor as narrator, the program intends to delve into the ethics of spying as interpreted by a democratic society.

Included will be interviews with Allen Dulles, former chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Richard Bissell, the CIA former director of plans.
